

KINGSTON

PHOTO BY ROCHELLE RISERVATO

SEE THE CHARIOT AT HAND HERE OF LOVE, WHEREIN MY LADY RIDETH. Wayfinder program directors (L-R) Ike Shaw, Marketing Director; Genevieve Casagrande, Artistic Director; Victoria Howland, Human Resources Manager.

Finding your own way

Program uses imagination and role-play to build life skills

Imagine a world where heroes and villains engage in a never-ending battle between good and evil, where the laughter of faeries is echoed by the roar of dragons, where powers exist that can raise the dead, heal the wounded, and harm the living, where oracles prophesize and rogues slip quietly into the night. Now imagine yourself, within this world, able to choose where to go, who to help, who to fight, and who to save. You are the hero of your own unique story and the success of your quest depends entirely on you. This is the Wayfinder Experience, a unique program that involves a combination of dress-up with improvisational theater, sports, team-building and more. Our Pat Rowe has a look at the Kingston chapter.

FOR MORE ON THIS STORY, SEE PAGE B3.

